Author releases second book on literary voyage

By Alex Wainwright

A NUNEATON author who has spent the last six years on an expedition around the world from the comfort of his armchair has released his second book.

John Brookes, from Weddington, has been travelling the globe by reading contemporary literature from each country.

He mapped out a travel list of well over 270 destinations to visit and has been reading a book from each country as part of this literary voyage.

The first volume of the author's travelogue came out last year, and now Mr Brookes has published the second year of his travels entitled 'Reading the World: A Global Journey through Literature volume 2'.

"I am delighted to be publishing the second volume of my round the world travels through literature, which sees me journeying around the vast continent of Africa," said Mr Brookes.

"As with volume one, to convey a real sense of travelling to and through these countries I have included background research on each country before reading its accompanying book, as well as looking into exactly how one might travel from place to place.

"As a result, in my book you will join me not just in a voyage through each country's literature; but in interminable journeys in rickety buses, meandering river cruises through dense jungle, off road excursions in unofficial 'taxis' and numerous flights in planes of varying airworthiness - and there is more to come, I still have five more continents to explore!"

The book is now available to buy from Amazon as a paperback or Kindle eBook, as well as through ACT Libraries.

Volume 1 has been entered into the ACT Book of the Year competition.
